

+ Land Restoration Fund Carbon Farming Advice Scheme Guidelines

Applications will open on the July 17 2023

1. About the program

In November 2017, the Queensland Government announced the $500 million Land Restoration Fund (LRF) to support Queensland-based land sector carbon farming projects and create new jobs and opportunities in this growing industry.

The LRF builds on the Australian Government's regulatory framework for generating Australian Carbon Credit Units (ACCUs). ACCUs are tradeable financial products regulated by the Commonwealth Clean Energy Regulator. The LRF has, as its primary objective, to facilitate a pipeline of carbon farming projects that generate ACCUs with environmental, social, economic and First Nations co-benefits.

The LRF has engaged the Queensland Rural and Industry Development Authority (QRIDA) to deliver the Carbon Farming Advice Scheme. The aim of the scheme is to assist landholders with accessing relevant advice from Approved Advisers (listed on the QRIDA website) about undertaking carbon farming project/s on their land.

This document provides information for landholders on how to apply for to the scheme and the requirements when seeking advice from Approved Advisers.

2. Objective

The objective of the scheme is to assist eligible landholders with the cost of accessing eligible advice from Approved Advisers about undertaking carbon farming project/s on their land.

3. Available funding

4.2 Financial assistance can cover more than one invoice from one Approved Adviser but cannot exceed the maximum amount available.
